Thousands of eyes were dimmed with tears that afternoon, and well they might. It was a pitiable sight to see the brave young Italian runner fail in sight of the goal, to see him meet with defeat just as victory was about to crown his brow. He had run well but he was unable to endure to the end. Had he been able to hold out a little longer he would have come off victorious. While reflecting on that memorable event, I was reminded of the saying of an ancient writer: The race is not to the swift nor the battle to the strong, and also of the words of the Master, He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved. Brethren and sisters, what a solemn lesson we can learn from the result of that race! We, too, are running a race, the race of our lives. The prize is beyond price - glory, honor, immortality, eternal lives, thrones, principalities, powers, with the privilege of dwelling in...
