Northcote House, Tavistock, 2004. Paperback. Condition: New. 1st Edition. 140pp Writers & Their Work Series [In stock in Australia now for immediate despatch] This introductory work traces the trajectory of women's writing from the first known stirrings of female authorship in the late 16th century to the emergence of the professional woman writer at the Restoration. Across a stretch of 100 years, Wray argues that women participated in many kinds of literary discourse, such as poetry, drama, fiction, autobiography, biography, advice books and religio-political treatises. Women Writers of the Seventeenth Century explores the major genres, assessing women's distinctive literary contributions, and offering a reappraisal of their work in terms of recent critical perspectives. Authors covered include Elizabeth Carey, Amelia Lanyer, Elizabeth Jocelin, Anna Trapnel, Mary Rich, Hannah Allen and Aphra Behn. Romana Wray is a Lecturer in English Literature at the Queen's University in Belfast. She is the co-editor of Shakespeare and Ireland: History, Politics and Culture (1997).
