Creating Strong Supplemental Educational Services Programs (Paperback)

By U S Department of Education, Office of Innovation and Improvement

Createspace, United States, 2013. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . This is the second publication in the Innovations in Education series: Creating Strong Supplemental Educational Services Programs. This series identifies concrete, real-world examples of innovations flourishing throughout this great land, in six important areas: public school choice, supplemental educational services, charter schools, magnet schools, alternative teacher certification, and school leadership. Although the term supplemental educational services is enjoying newfound prominence, its meaning is as old as education itself: tutoring. This important provision of the No Child Left Behind Act provides eligible low-income parents with the same opportunities more affluent parents have long enjoyed: the chance to engage a highly skilled tutor, or access other forms of academic enrichment, to help their child catch up if they have fallen behind. For school districts, this extra help for their neediest students can be an important complement to ongoing school improvement efforts. But as we have learned in the first two years of this historic law, successfully setting up a supplemental educational services program takes a lot of work and foresight. States play a key role by approving and monitoring the providers -including nonprofit organizations,...
