A year of wonders, indeed! It is a common comment of historians that the closing years of centuries are apparently most memorable. It was towards the close of the fifteenth, that the great Genoese discovered America; towards the close of the sixteenth, that little England struck the fatal blow to the giant power of Spain; towards the close of the seventeenth, that the same little England won a still greater victory, this time over domestic tyranny, in that altogether glorious revolution of 1688; towards the close of the eighteenth, that France strove to work out ideals the most splendid that have ever been embodied in a national programme of reform - too splendid, it seemed, for success. And now, towards the close of the nineteenth century, the world seems preparing for another tremendous struggle, with neither England, nor France, nor Spain, for the central and heroic figure, but a little, puny kingdom, with barely seventy years of national existence to boast of, and behind that, centuries of degrading and demoralizing servitude;...
