The Sultanate of Oman has been a strategic ally of the United States for several decades. In 1980, partly in response to the Islamic Revolution in Iran that overthrew the Shah, Oman became the first Persian Gulf state to sign a formal agreement with the United States allowing U. S. use of its military facilities, despite sensitivities in Oman about a U. S. military presence there. It hosted U. S. forces during every U. S. military operation in and around the Gulf since 1980 and has become a significant buyer of U. S. military equipment, moving away from its prior reliance on British military advice and equipment. Oman is a partner in U. S. efforts to counter the movement of terrorists and pirates in the Persian Gulf and Arabian Sea, and it has consistently supported U. S. Middle East peacemaking efforts by publicly endorsing peace agreements reached and by occasionally hosting Israeli leadership visits. It was partly in appreciation for this alliance that the United States entered into a free trade agreement (FTA) with Oman, which is also intended to...
