Johnson On December 9, 1914, the Commission submitted to the Governor a report on the general problem of unemployment. That report embodied conclusions and recommendations which were made after a year of study and investigations undertaken at the request of the Governor. In addition to recommendations looking toward the elimination of unemployment and the solution of the industrial problem, the Commission made certain suggestions concerning the alleviation of suffering and want - the more immediate problem of unemployment. The substance of these latter suggestions is contained in the following extract from the report: Suggestions for a Method of Dealing with the Destitute Unemployed During the Winter of 1914-15. An entirely separate and distinct problem is the question as to how to handle the unemployed of the state during the coming winter. There is every indication that we shall have many roving, unemployed and destitute men in the state. Since any possible state legislation looking toward an alleviation of the situation could not...
