

Nursing Adventures in a Teaching Hospital

By Lenore Stephen-Foster

iUniverse, United States, 2007. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 198 x 122 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Nearly everyone in the nursing and other professions has had to say at least once in their career, I have to write about this! This is the author s account of events that touched her in some way. Anyone who has been a patient in a hospital or nursing home, student nurses, nurses, and other health care professionals will resonate with the events in the book. While the names of the characters in the book are fictitious, the events themselves did take place historically. The dialogue has been kept as simple as possible, and reflects the flavor of the patients dialogue. Enjoy. A very insightful and at times witty look at the earlier years of the nursing profession in Trinidad Tobago. Lenore Stephen Foster s clear, yet artful style of writing will no doubt give the reader hours of enjoyment and new perspective. Two thumbs up! -Dr. Alietha Joseph, MBBS, B.Sc. (Bio-Chem) Lenore Stephen-Foster has marked the spot to give a glimpse of what nursing was like in the 1950s in Trinidad and Tobago. It is light and...
