Excerpt from The Right Honourable Caroline Countess of Seafield: Born 30th June 1830, Died 6th October 1911 With deep regret we announce to day the death of the venerable and venerated lady who for so many years has administered with rare ability and discrimination the great and widely - extended affairs of the House of Seafield, and who has occupied with distinction and with the sympathy and affection of all one of the greatest positions in the North of Scotland. The sad event had not been altogether unlooked for, although it must come to many as if with a sense of personal bereavement, so familiar was her ladyship's name over a wide territory in the northern counties, and such was the place of respectful affection and esteem in which her high qualities of heart and mind were held. In the spring of last year Lady Seafield suffered a very serious illness, felt all the more, as was natural, in view of the years to which she had attained. On that occasion, much to the gratification of all, she made a wonderful recovery, and in course her ladyship regained something of her old elasticity. Of late, however, weakness had returned in an accentuated form. She had been able to take short walks near Cullen House, and up to Wednesday, although then quite confined to her room, was able to attend to business, signing papers on that day. Her ladyship's weakness was, however, very great, and on Friday morning, shortly after six o'clock, the worst fears were realised, when the much loved Countess, a noble lady whose name will linger long in many associations of the north...
