The Cat of the Stars is a short story by Sinclair Lewis. Harry Sinclair Lewis (February 7, 1885 January 10, 1951) was an American novelist, short-story writer, and playwright. In 1930, he became the first writer from the United States to receive the Nobel Prize in Literature, which was awarded for his vigorous and graphic art of description and his ability to create, with wit and humor, new types of characters. His works are known for their insightful and critical views of American capitalism and materialism between the wars. He is also respected for his strong characterizations of modern working women. H. L. Mencken wrote of him, If there was ever a novelist among us with an authentic call to the trade . . . it is this red-haired tornado from the Minnesota wilds. He has been honored by the U. S. Postal Service with a Great Americans series postage stamp. Lewis's earliest published creative work romantic poetry and short sketches appeared in the Yale Courant and the Yale Literary Magazine, of which he became an editor. After graduation Lewis...
