Excerpt from River of Golden Sand, Vol. 2 of 2: The Narrative of a Journey Through China and Eastern Tibet to Burmah, With Illustration and Ten Maps From Original Surveys In this there are eight bastions, four being pierced by gates. It is now three and a half miles long by about two and a half miles broad, the longest side lying about east-south-east, and west-north-west, so that its compass in the present day is about twelve miles. A stream, about thirty feet wide, runs through the city from west to east parts of this are embanked with perpendicular revetments on either side. At one point it is spanned by three bridges close together, each of stone with a single arch. The one in the centre has at one time evidently been larger and of more importance, for on the other side of the road that lies between the water and the houses, almost buried in the buildings, there is a stone lion with his back to the brook. This has clearly been the former end of the bridge, so that the houses...
