Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from A Sketch of the Chandler Family in Worcester, Massachusetts But for those lives, my life had never known This faded vesture which it calls its own. The founders of this family, so large and so influential before the Revolution, were of very obscure origin and in very humble circumstances when they landed on these shores. William Chandler and Annice his wife came from England in 1637 with their children and settled in Roxbury, Massachusetts. The family seem to have been without any means of support, and during the long illness of Mr. Chandler they were cared for by their neighbors and friends, on account of their affection for him. He died in the year 1641, having lived a very religious and godly life and leaving a sweet memory and savor behind him. Annice Chandler must have been an attractive woman, for she was not only soon married to a second husband, but to a third, and her last one evidently expected her to enter into matrimony a fourth time, for in his Will, he provided...
