Not illustrated. 1866 Excerpt: . . . the glass In every fragment multiplies; and makes A thousand images of one that was, The same, and still the more, the more it breaks; And thus the heart will do which not forsakes, Living in shatterd guise, and still, and cold, And bloodless, with its sleepless sorrow aches, Yet withers on till all without is old, Showing no visible sign, for such things are untold. There is a very life in our despair, Vitality of poison, --a quick root Which feeds these deadly branches; for it were As nothing did we die; but life will suit Itself to Sorrows most detested fruit, Like to the apples on the Dead Seas shore, All ashes to the taste: Did man compute Existence by enjoyment, and count oer Such hours gainst years of life, --say, would he name threescore xxxv. The Psalmist numberd out the years of man: They are enough: and if thy tale be true, Thou, who didst grudge him even that fleeting span, More than enough, thou fatal Waterloo! Millions of tongues record thee, and anew Their childrens lips shall echo them, and say--Here, where the sword united nations drew, Our countrymen were warring on that day! And this is much, and all which will not pass away. xxx VI. There sunk the greatest, nor the worst of men, Whose spirit antithetically mixd One moment of the mightiest, and again On little objects with like firmness fixd, F Extreme in all things! hadst thou been...
