Excerpt from Gazetteer of the Bombay Presidency, Vol. 18: Part III., Poona Never put in any public prison for private debt, though they were sometimes confined or tormented by the creditor at his house or in his patron s house. In rare cases, when this had been entered in the bond, the debtor was made to serve the creditor till the amount of his nominal wages equalled the debt. Honest bankrupts seem to have been let 05 nearly as at present. Fraudulent ones were made to pay when discovered notwithstanding a previous release. The great objects of litigation were boundary disputes, divimon of W the separation of families, and inheritance to land which was per the greatest source of litigation throughout the whole country. S to bankers were also frequently subjects for suits. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
