Excerpt: .is poured on the filter (which is either previously tared or not, according to circumstances), care being taken not to disturb the precipitate. This is done by holding a glass rod in a perpendicular position over the filter, placing the lip of the beaker against it, and causing the liquid to flow steadily down the rod into the filter. When the latter is three-fourths full, the beaker is turned into an erect position and the rod drained against the inside of the lip, and then laid across the top of the beaker until it is time to refill the filter. After thus pouring off as much as practicable, the precipitate remaining in the beaker is treated with water and well stirred. When the whole has once more settled, the clear fluid is again passed through the filter. This operation having been repeated three or...
