We have had an unusual year, to say the least, and it looked for a while as though we were not going to weather the storm. However, we have been able to get the magazine out regularly for the past five numbers, one every two weeks, and we feel satisfied for this year. . Our plans for next year are going to be different from those we have formerly worked on. The responsibility will be centered on one man. In this way we hope to concentrate things so that, if we do get a good man, -- one that can carry the responsibility that this position will demand, he will be able to put things through with a promptness and accuracy that no organization can hope to have that has two heads. We are going to have practically the same size paper, within sixteen pages or so, and we are going to carry the same amount of advertising as this year. We are going after our subscription list, and when were through next fall there isnt going to be a student or an alumnus of this university that doesnt take the Wisconsin Engineer. Bear that in mind, please, when we strike you next fall. Another thing. There are several positions open on this paper for men who can take hold of a thing and push it through without being jollied along, and followed up every few days by the manager...
