Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Featured at the Port Discovery Children s Museum STEM in Spring Starred Reviews: Rarely is there a book written for young children that enables them to get inside the story the way Zapped does. Zapped brings you in and gets you hooked through adventure, story and exploration. It is a nail biter -- and in the story kids begin to learn about the science of cells -- names, systems, processes all come to life. I just loved it. Susan Magsamen, Senior Advisor, Brain Science Institute and Science of Learning Institute, Johns Hopkins University and Creator of Curiosityville. When a mysterious machine shrinks Sonya, Lynelle, and Giselle to microscopic proportions they become so small that they slip through the walls of a cell and the three girls find themselves caught up in a roller coaster of an adventure that has them running for their lives. Will they ever escape? Read Zapped! to find out.
