It is well paved, lighted with gas, and supplied with water. The parish church, which is the cathedral for the united diocese of Down and Connor, is a spacious and handsome building with a tower, to which an octagonal spire was added in 1807. It contains a monument to Jeremy Taylor, who died at Lisburu in 1667. Besides the pariah church, there are a chapel of ease, places of worship for Roman Catholics, Presbyterians, Quakers, and Methodists, National, Free, and Infant schools, and a school endowed by John Hancock for the support and education of 40 Quaker children. The charitable institutions are the County of Antrim Infirmary, the Lisburn Fever Hospital, and six free houses for destitute widows. In the town is a savings bank. Lisburn possesses great facilities for trade, and large quantities of agricultural produce, provisions, and manufactured goods are disposed...
