Createspace, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.When I embarked on this project back on one cold January day of 2015 (this was one of the coldest winters I had ever witnessed with its relentless cold snaps and winter storms that froze my ideas at times), I thought I would only receive a lukewarm response from the Vietnamese-American community because I did not know the great majority of these practitioners-many of them being from the 2.0 generation. They did not know me and I did not know them either. It was basically a cold sale process. And I wondered how to approach these physicians, how to entice them to write essays about their training, research, and practice and to open the door to their hearts and souls. Doctors are a strange group of people. They ask a lot of questions from their patients but one never knows what goes inside their minds. I was also leery about the time factor. Since their time is limited and therefore, very valuable, they might not want to spend time writing an essay for a stranger. Then, there is a big difference between writing a scientific paper or a textbook and trying to explain your feelings in an essay. It is then not surprising that a few who had written papers and medical textbooks in English before, categorically refused to write an essay for me. In their case, English is not the main reason. The great majority, especially the first-generation physicians, simply do not feel comfortable enough to write in English, although they have lived in the U.S. for quite a long time. In the end, they wrote more than half of the book you are holding in your...
