Community and the Soul of Ireland: The Need for Values-based Change (Paperback)

By Harry Bohan

The Liffey Press, Ireland, 2003. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. Fr Harry Bohan, Founder of the Ceifin Institute, is recognised as one of the leading social commentators in Ireland today. An innovative and original thinker, Fr Bohan contends that the economic success of recent years was hugely important, but it has come at a considerable cost. The rapid changes in Irish society over the last decade - including a decline in the authority of the Catholic Church, the revelations of political corruption, a widening gap between the haves and have-nots, and a breakdown in the family and community as social units - have created a sense of unease despite our increased Bohan argues that people are becoming disconnected from institutions that shaped them and provided leadership in the past. Our current social model emphasises individualism and consumerism to the extent that child-rearing, for example, is seen as another cost , to be met by both parents working, often meeting their children for a few brief, exhausted hours in the evening. The key question then remains if the family and institutions are losing their authority, who will raise the next generation? Fr Bohan believes that there is an...
