Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Class of Eighty-Five, Amherst College: Letters From the Class, And, an Account of the Quinquennial I entirely approve of your plan of establishing the Nursery My own impression is that if such an institution had been established during 85 s regime in college, many of us had matured much earlier in life. I could write you a book on what I don t know about my classmates. I do not know of any nearer in distance to me than Columbus, O. So I see much of them. Jase Hinman and Ned Tuttle spent a week with me during the Holidays, and we had an 85 reunion on a rather different scale, both in size and character, from what those staid events are remarkable for. Pliny fiske, 81 Causeway St., Boston. There are very few new developments in my case of interest to 85 men. I am not yet married have not changed my location and there is no prospect of a change so far as I know. I was much disappointed in not being able to attend the Boston dinner and see the new President. I have not seen an 85 man for some time in Boston. Tod B. Galloway, Esq., 553 E. Town St., Columbus, Ohio. Either the reunion last summer, or the election last fall has completely turned Tod s head. His letter is a perfect jumble and affords me the greatest difficulty in endeavoring to extract from it anything coherent. However, here goes! Tod s name appears third on the letter-heads of the firm of Nash Lentz, Board of Trade Building, Columbus, O. I am not informed as to the cor rect form in legal letter-heads but presume...
