

Investment Incentives: A Comparative Analysis of the Systems in the EEC, the USA and Sweden

By Barry Bracewell-Milnes

Kluwer Fiscale en Financieel, The Netherlands, Netherlands, 1977. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 1977 ed.. 244 x 170 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Modern society cannot function without a high level of investment, just as it cannot function without a high level of taxation (or its equivalent in communist countries). Both investment and taxation (as a source of government revenue) are important for the level of production and employment. No wonder then that governments are faced with an increasing dilemma between higher taxation on the one hand and the need for stimulating investment by tax reductions or allowances on the other. Related to this is the choice between a market economy which is as free as possible and detailed governmental measures for monitoring and steering investments, not only with the intention to promote economic growth but to further a number of other social interests as well. This is to some extent a political issue but the decisions it involves should still be based on sound economic facts and considerations. In many countries one of the important instruments for stimulating and steering investment is the introduction or modification of investment incentives within the framework of...
