

Laser-Strophometry: High-Resolution Techniques for Velocity Gradient Measurements in Fluid Flows

By Wilfried Staude

Springer-Verlag Berlin and Heidelberg GmbH & Co. K. Paperback. Condition: New. 180 pages. Dimensions: 9.2in. x 6.1in. x 0.5in. This book is the result of two decades of research work which started with an accidental observation. One of my students, Dipl. phys. Volkmar Lenz, noticed that the speckle pattern of laser light scattered by a cuvette containing diluted milk performed a strange motion every time he came near the cuvette with his thumb. After thinking about this effect we came to the conclusion that this motion can only be caused by scattering particles with different velocities, as in the case of the diffraction pattern of an optical grating: A linear motion of the grating does not change the pattern whereas a rotation of the grating does. The observed speckle motion could then be explained qualitatively as produced by the inhomogeneous velocity of the convection within the cuvette which was produced by the heat of the thumb. The theoretical treatment of this effect revealed that the velocity gradient of the light scattering medium is responsible for the speckle motion. The idea to use this effect for developing measurement techniques for velocity gradients arose almost immediately. For that purpose we had to develop not only...
