Copper Canyon Press, 2010. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. One of our premier poets. --The New York Times Dubie s dramatic poetry seeks to represent our deepest moments of perception, struggle, and revelation. Out of his voice come the voices of multitudes. Yet his achievement and vision are singular. --American Book Review The Boston Review called Norman Dubie s poems extraordinary, and the evocative poems of The Volcano certainly are: lyrically intense, hallucinatory, worldly, and precise. In a five-word poem, A New Moon, he laments, I will not see it. But there is much he does see: DNA ladders, Sasquatch, Pontius Pilot s mealy figs, and a calliope of turtles / bobbing in the North Atlantic. Green fruit on a card table. At the roadside, a small boy gnawing on corn smiles with efficient hunger--no one else is alive for a hundred square miles-- the road ruptured above and below him-- the jaguar smiles back in a white cap of ash that is also the night . . . Norman Dubie founded the MFA program at Arizona State University. He lives in Tempe, Arizona.
