Vintage, 2013. Book Condition: New. Brand New, Unread Copy in Perfect Condition. A+ Customer Service! Summary: "Perhaps Morrison's most lyrical performance so far." -Christopher Benfey, The New York Review of Books "Morrison writes about psychological violence with an engineer's precision and a poet's expansiveness." -Tyrone Beason, The Seattle Times "Morrison packs a powerful narrative punch. . . [Her] depiction of the delightful ways black men engage in verbal banter to exchange personal and collective memories, and the poignant ways black women stand on their faith to deploy survival strategies only they could design, makes this a novel that begs rereading. She movingly describes people who survive and thrive, even when life deals them painful, mean blows. . . [T]he beauty of Morrison's language and her profound truths about life and living compel one to run the page and keep reading. This 10th novel shows that the author is still questioning what we think we know when we think we know someone." -Marilyn Sanders Mobley, Ms. Magazine " Home showcases a writer at the height of her powers in evoking a moment and its historical counter-currents. And it ranks among [Morrison's] most readable stories. It is also, like so many of her novels, a book certain to reward rereading: you can go Home again. And you should." -Jim Cullen, History News Network "Gorgeous and intense, brutal yet heartwarming . . . like a slingshot that wields the impact of a missile. . . Home is as accessible, tightly composed and visceral as anything Morrison has written. . . [Her] shorter, more direct sentences have the capacity to leave a reader awestruck. . . Devastating, deeply humane, ever-relevant." -Heller McAlpin, NPR "The story of the warrior's struggle to return home is classic, but Nobel laureate Morrison imbues...
