Excerpt from Vaccination: Its Fallacies and Evils Had Jenner been a conscientious searcher after truth, he never would have asserted, six years after he commenced his investigations, that the vaccine disease for ever after secured against the infection of small-pox. Had he been a real scientist he would never have invented new theories to account for every failure in the results of his investigations, at least, till a sufficient number of years had elapsed to prove the general truth of his assertions. Had he discovered any actual scientific truth, it would have come down to us precisely as he gave it to the public in 1798.
