By John G Kirk

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Bookkeeping for Modern Business: Advanced Course The same general plan which characterizes the elementary course has been followed in the advanced course. Each new principle is presented in the same clear and concise manner, using, when possible, the ledger account as the basis of all explanation, and thereby illustrating clearly the theory of debit and credit. Some of the more important subjects included here, and not ordinarily illustrated or discussed in texts of this kind are: construction of accounts; classification of accounts; valuation accounts; reserve accounts; divisional profit and loss accounts; controlling accounts; contingent liability; renewal of notes; partial payment of notes; protested notes; goodwill; columnar books; subsidiary ledgers both in bound and loose-leaf form; working form for closing the ledger; turnover; turnover of stock; ten column working sheet; calculation of percentages; graphical methods of presenting facts; comparative profit and loss statements; comparative balance sheets; schedules; exhibits, etc. These subjects are in harmony with modern bookkeeping and in conformity with sound theory and general practice. Then, as a means of providing necessary drill in bookkeeping technique and routine, the accounts and books...
