By Pennsylvania Railroad Company

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Pennsylvania Railroad to the Columbian Exposition Bartholdi's colossal statue, Liberty Enlightening the World, the largest statue ever constructed, rises to a height of some thing like three hundred feet above Liberty Island, which occupies an imposing position in the middle of the harbor, and you recall, as you gaze upon its gigantic proportions, that it was a gift of France to the United States to commemorate the good will that has ever existed between the two nations. Through the mist that overhangs the water the East River Bridge, with its two Sky-scraping towers and its sixteen hundred feet of space between - the largest suspension bridge in the world - looms up in the distance; Governor's Island, a most important feature in the harbor defense of New York, is now on your right, and Ellis Island, the landing-place for Immigrants, has come into sight on your left, lying between Liberty Island and the New Jersey shore. Now it is that you gather your first impressions of the chief city of the new world, the towering buildings, cupolas,...
