Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. Forsooth a dragon cometh too; a kind of wisdom to tally true, two teenage boys in Wisconsin wrote onto a page of song lyrics in 1992, unaware the words sounded like several verses of Book of Isaiah, Chapter 34. Eighteen years later, Rolling 30 s Harlem Crips gang member Darius Gant, with a dragon tattoo on his arm, shot 8 bullets into an innocent bystander near downtown Los Angeles to exact a vendetta as part of a gang war with neighboring gang the fruit town brims. One of those two Wisconsin kids, David Bilskemper, later (and right before his name change to last name Black) became a jury member on Mr. Gant s attempted murder case- a trial involving an epic, malicious showdown of language between two startlingly different female attorneys and witness testimony from a shooting victim who almost certainly should have died. This is his story- a true crime personal memoir book rivaling Blood Will Out by Walter Kirn and in a similar stylistic genre as My Story by Elizabeth Smart with Chris Stewart. Previously presented as two separate books, now both parts are available here in one volume- the trial where Mr. Black was a juror, and the woeful aftermath stretching out for years. As events after the case paralleled Isaiah chapter 34 at a personal level, and only partially, there did come a year of recompense for the cause of Zion, (Isaiah 34:8) but also a personal situation so highly variable and uncertain, that there could have been said to have been no one certain practical answer in reality- with the whole procession of events marked by extraordinary phenomenon and astronomical events. The answer that the narrator...
