*Merely no terms to spell out. We have read through and i also am confident that i will gonna read yet again again in the future. You will not sense monotony at anytime of your own time (that's what catalogs are for about should you question me).

I See thee standing near, oh! bright-eyed one, I gather strength to run the life-long race; Around thy brow I see the light of dawn, And love triumphant in thy radiant face. And thou wert with me in the early years, I followed thee through many pathways wild, And worshipped thee, and had nor doubts nor fears, But all the strong faith of a simple child. From early morn, till noon, and twilight grey, And when the, solemn stars looked down on night, In midnight visions, waking dreams by day, I walked illumined by thy mystic light. And in that early day the world was new, All wisdom dwelt, my father, then with thee; Oh simple faith! oh simple faith and true! The shrine at which I knelt--a mother's knee. Her gentle voice and eyes, angelic, mild, Still follow me through all the rolling years; The bearded man looks back upon the child, And though he smiles, his eyes are filled with tears. He sees a land of sunshine and of flowers, Receding far across an ocean wide; And all his soul is with the golden hours, But now he hears Hope whispering at his side: Heed not the waning glory of the west, But gird thyself to march and meet the dawn; And with a fearless heart within thy breast, Through doubt and darkness, I will lead thee on. THE COMIN O SLEEP. Oh, was there a bairnie like...
