GBAND MEETING IN THE DUKBAR-TENT. At a little before five o'clock, the Colonel lending me one of his chargers, we proceeded to the durbar-tent specified in the orders; we passed the camps of two other regiments on the way, and fell in with another officer or two riding the same route, besides two or three dozen native chiefs--they were evidently gaily got up for the occasion--some of them literally shone with gold braiding, while the unique snow-white petticoats of the Albanians contrasted well with the yellow colour of the precious metal scattered so profusely about, both on their own persons and on their horses. Of the beasts themselves I can only say that, while the horses of the Albanian regiments showed no breeding, and were, generally speaking, small to a fault, those of the Arabs were the reverse in every respect; and I could not help wondering how the men, poor as they must have been, could have picked up such splendid animals. I found out afterwards that the English Government had advanced them money for the purchase of all their horses; but of this hereafter. I A LOVELY VIEW. 39 On arrival at the durbar-tent, I looked around with surprise at the beauty of the scene;--it was situated nearly on the extreme verge of the high bank overlooking the Straits of the Dardanelles, the waters of which (at that particular period of the war, perhaps more than at any other)...
