By Horton Howard

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from An Improved System of Botanic Medicine, Vol. 2: Founded Upon Correct Physiological Principles; Embracing a Concise View of Anatomy and Physiology; Together With an Illustration of the New Theory of Medicine And these general remedies are so systematically and harmoniously adapted to each other, and to the human body; and their principles and modes of administration so simplified, that any family possessing an ordinary share of common sense, may become their own physician in almost all cases of disease. We very well know that this doctrine is contrary to the common ideas of people in general, and of the medical faculty in particular; but it has been verified, especially of late years, on a very extensive scale, and also has the countenance of some of the best men who have ever adorned the science of medicine. John Howard, the celebrated English philanthropist, said that every man must be his own physician; he must prescribe for, and practice on himself. And Dr. Rush, whose benevolence was of the same enlightened and liberal cast with John Howard...
