Gavin s voice was low and powerful, molding the sound of her name like a work of art in its tender tones. His hand had reached for hers but she pulled it away, snapping it from his grasp as if from fire. Stop saying my name like that. Like what? Gavin said, his voice still milky soft. Like that! I can t think, she confessed, My brain gets all fuzzy when I m around you and I can t think. She sighed then went on, I don t know what to think. But even if you should suffer for what is right, you are blessed. Do not fear what they fear; do not be frightened. First Peter, chapter three, verse fourteen. Addison Makenzie was the girl next door. Gavin James was her brother s best friend. Thrown together after a mutual tragedy the two reconnect as adults and discover Gavin s grandparents love letters that reveal more about his families past then either of them had ever known. As Gavin and Addison learn more about his...
