Ben Barclay checked the horse he was driving and looked attentively at the speaker. He was a stout-built, dark-complexioned man, with a beard of a week s growth, wearing an old and dirty suit, which would have reduced any tailor to despair if taken to him for cleaning and repairs. A loose hat, with a torn crown, surmounted a singularly ill-favored visage. A tramp, and a hard looking one! said Ben to himself. He hesitated about answering, being naturally reluctant to have such a traveling companion. Well, what do you say? demanded the tramp rather impatiently. There s plenty of room on that seat, and I m dead tired. Where are you going? asked Ben. Same way you are-to Pentonville. You can ride, said Ben, in a tone by means cordial, and he halted his horse till his unsavory companion climbed into the wagon. They were two miles from Pentonville, and Ben had a prospect of a longer ride than he desired under the circumstances. His companion pulled out a dirty clay pipe...
