Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2012. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . The aerial photos represented here were taken by former military photographer Travis Michael Burns. The 2004 Indonesian Tsunami Disaster happened in the Indian Ocean, these images were taken outside of Banda Ache , Sumatra, Indonesia. Essentially the photos were taken from aboard a Black Hawk Helicopter during Humanitarian Aide Transport of food, health care and survival rations. The nature of these images is to show the magnitude of the Tsunami disaster overall. It is known that roughly 250,000 people were killed from this terrible event. The tsunami disaster event happened on the 24th of December 2004, these aerial images were taken a month later on the 25th of January, 2005. Over 1,000 photos were taken during this Humanitarian Aide mission, and simply were never released until now. The world will not understand what had happened, unless people have access to the images from the event. The disaster in 2004 was a eye opening situation for me in my life. I have always wanted to show the world these images that I took overseas. it is simply amazing the power of mother nature. with so many disaster situations which have happened so far in my life time, i simply want to use these images as an example to those who do not understand the vast ability of disaster and power which our world can produce. The disasters of our world which have happened such as hurricane katrina, the tsunami in japan, the wildfires of california, and colorado, as well as earth quake disasters of california, and mexico, and the tsunami of indonesia indian ocean. I can not say that these could have ever been prevented, yet we as a people...
