Excerpt: . . . easily yielding to the Womans Pains, or freely giving way to the Touch of your Fingers (the Water-bag at the fame time projecting largely through it), and regularly expanding or widening itself more and more by the Influence of every Pain, till there is sufficient Room thereby obtained for the Expulsion of the Child, insomuch that it may be able to pals forth, and come into the World along with the flowing Waters (as soon as the Pains shall have broke open the Bag in which they are contained), or directly after them; under these lucky Circumstances you may justly comfort your Patient with the strongest and most positive Assurances of a very happy, safe, and speedy Iffue. Another Cafe remains (a dismal one it is), wherein. you may soon determine your Judgment concerning he jBvent ps the Labour, and the Fate Fate of the Infant, at least: For whenever this unfortunate Case happens (as it sometimes has done, and consequently the like Instances may occur in your Practice), there can be neither a quick nor a flow Delivery, nor, in Reality, any Delivery at all, with regard to the Child, unless the unhappy Womans Body be laid open, having the Operation performd on her which is called the Csarean SeEiion from the Account which we have from the Historians, . of Julius Csar being brought into the World by the Performance of the said Operation. . . . This dreadful Case, which must...
