Alexander Selkirk as mate received 800 prize money. Harris (voyages, etc.) makes the following comments on the voyage: It has been universally allowed by such as are proper judges of such expeditions that there never was any voyage of this nature so happily adjusted, so well provided in all respects, or in which the accidents that usually happen in Privateers were so effectually guarded against. This he attributes to the abilities of the gentlemen Of Bristol, and remarks that it was owing to this expedition that the spirit of privateering in the South Seas was not totally lost in Eng land. The large sums realized had evidently made an endur ing impression, and Harris adds, I might, perhaps, go too far should I assert that this voyage gave rise to the South Sea Company, but this much I can safely say, that the success Of this voyage was what the patrons of that Company chie?y insisted upon in their defence, when the plan of it was attacked as insufficient and chimerical.
