

EMERGENT SYMMETRIES

By Din, Edouard

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: VDM Verlag Dr. Müller | A Group Theoretical Analysis of an Exemplar of Late Modernism: The Smith House by Richard Meier | Highly complex designs can be described as layered objects whose parts are all related symmetrically. Meier offers an architecture that presents itself as a system of systems of a hyper-refined construction. Such a design exemplifies formal qualities of abstraction, layering, complexity and depth, all appearing impenetrable to any analysis using the existing methods. The representational model is built upon abstraction, projection, weighting and layering. The wall functions as a distributor of the forms of architecture: the articulation in relief and the organizational scaffolding. A new layering strategy borrows elements from both and organizes the whole construction along the premises of group theory. Such a synthesis articulates the partial order lattice of the configuration and carries through the computation. Design is a mode of computation that explicitly exercises both imagination and reason. A major challenge is the degree to which the decompositions provided prove visually the established discourses on the subject. That is an aspect of further critical research on the ability of this methodology to align itself with existing analytical discourses and prove them or not. | Format: Paperback | Language/Sprache: english | 184 pp.
