THE thoughts of our earliest days are those, each one of which, ffire perennius, abides with us through life, while those of later years pass away, oftentimes like a shadow without recall. Who then is there in whose oldest memory the legendary tale of the Babes in the Wood does not for ever dwell; and who is there in remembrance of it that with the Robins so-called faults will not love him still Faults he certainly has, or at least dispositions which would be such in us; but he fulfils to the letter the mission of his nature, and that is what no man living can say of himself. An inhabitant of the...
