Createspace, United States, 2014. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Hev a bunch o roses, mem? Fresh wild roses with the dew on em. Jes picked. On y ten cents. They dropped in at the open window, and landed on Virginia Deering s lap. Her first impulse was to throw them out again, as she half said to herself, I hate wild roses, I always shall! But she glanced down into such a forlorn, wistful face, that her heart was touched, a not unkindly heart, though it had been bitter and obdurate with the unreason of youth. Oh, please buy em, mem. Mammy s sick and can t do nothin , an Ben s got a fever. On y ten cents. The poor child, in her ragged dress, was clean enough. Her face had a starved, eager look, and the earnest pleading in the eyes bespoke necessity seldom counterfeited. Miss Deering opened her pretty silver-clasped purse and handed out a quarter. All of it? hesitatingly. Oh, thanky, thanky! We d sold the chickens, and everything we could, and Ben said city folks was fond of wild-flowers. The whistle blew. There was a groan and quiver as the train began to move, that drowned the child s gratitude. Miss Deering laid the roses on the seat beside her with a curious touch, as if she shrank from them. An hour or two ago she had started on her journey, leaving behind her a sweet dream of youth and love and roses. In twenty-four hours the brightness of her life had been swept away. The summer day wore a dulness she had never seen before. She was a handsome young girl, with a fine complexion, light, silken soft hair, and very dark gray eyes....
