

Report of the Canadian Arctic Expedition, 1913-18, Vol. 3: Insects: Introduction and List of New Genera and Species Collected by the Expedition (Classic Reprint) (Paperback)

By C Gordon Hewitt

Forgotten Books, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Report of the Canadian Arctic Expedition, 1913-18, Vol. 3: Insects: Introduction and List of New Genera and Species Collected by the Expedition Our knowledge of the insect fauna of northern and arctic Canada has hitherto been so meagre, and our collections so lacking in material from that region that the invitation given me in 1913 by the Deputy Minister of Mines to prepare a memorandum of instructions concerning the collection of insects by the Canadian Arctic Expedition which was then being organized was more than welcome, and high hopes were entertained that a rich harvest would result. The sad and untimely death of Mr. James Murray, the marine biologist of the expedition, following the loss of the Karluk, placed upon the shoulders of Mr. Frits Johansen, to whom the entomological work had been assigned, a double burden and increased duties and he became responsible for the marine biology in addition to his botanical and entomological work. The large collections of marine and other invertebrates, fishes, and plants testify as to the assiduity with which Mr. Johansen collected. But, as was inevitable...

READ ONLINE
[3.97 MB]

Reviews

It becomes an amazing pdf which i actually have at any time read through. This can be for all those who statte there had not been a worthy of reading through. You wont sense monotony at anytime of your own time (that's what catalogues are for relating to should you check with me).

-- Claud Kris

If you need to adding benefit, a must buy book. It is writter in easy words and phrases and not difficult to understand. Your daily life span is going to be transform when you complete reading this article publication.

-- Ricky Leannon