By George F Braxton

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Braxton s Practical Cook Book The stock pot is the making of all good soups; that is to say if your kitchen is not provided with a stock pot it is impossible to make good soups. To prepare stock, take fresh beef bones, or bones of chicken, lamb, or any other fresh meat, crack them, put them into the pot, cover with cold water, set on the back of the stove and let it simmer all day, and if convenient, all night. The next morning strain, set in a cool place and when the grease rises, skim very carefully. Turn the stock, without any of the settlings, into the dish in which you wish to prepare the soup, and add the ingredients of whatever kind of soup you wish to prepare.
