

Compassion for Disabled Peers in College Is Needed: A System for Teachers and Students and Psychologists Aand Counselors and Language Therapist for Helping the Autistic and Language Learning Disabled Students in Encouraging Ways

By Brian Gene Evans

On Demand Publishing, LLC-Create Space, 2014. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This book is about the compassion needed for disabled students with autism and/or a language learning disability in the college setting. It is my idea of a system of advocacy for the sake of the disabled individual by everybody involved through a process of channeling. A student that notices differences in another student and suspects they may have some deficiencies in communicating with others or displays odd behaviors or seems to get confused easily over things may suggest to the individual they might could get language therapy to help them and if they think they cannot talk a language therapy into giving them therapy, you may could talk to them yourself to let them know what you noticed about this person and see if there is anything they can do to help. In turn the language therapist could give the other student pointers on how to work with the disabled person if they get confused about something, and they can be working on two way conversations, sequencing, memory, and problem solving situations in therapy in the meanwhile. If the therapist also...

READ ONLINE
[2.06 MB]

Reviews

Comprehensive information! Its this sort of excellent go through. It is packed with knowledge and wisdom You may like just how the author publish this book.

-- Mustafa McGlynn

Complete guideline! Its this kind of great read through. It is probably the most incredible pdf i actually have read through. Its been developed in an extremely straightforward way and it is simply soon after i finished reading this book through which actually modified me, affect the way i really believe.

-- Beryl Labadie I