Excerpt: . . . treatment the draught-horse in our streets And may not a vast amount of suffering be inflicted, which will not put in peril the life or strength of the slave To substantiate the charge of cruelty, I shall not, as I have said, have recourse to current reports, however well established. I am willing to dismiss them all as false. I stand on other ground. Reports may lie, but our daily experience of human nature cannot lie. I summon no witnesses, or rather I appeal to a witness every where present, a witness in every heart. Who that has watched his own heart, or observed others, does not feel that man is not fit to be trusted with absolute, irresponsible power over men It must be abused. The selfish passions and pride of our nature will as surely abuse it, as the storm will ravage, or...
