The General is very badly hurt; I certainly should not like to give an opinion at present whether he will get over it or not. If he does it will be a very narrow shave. He was insensible till we lifted him into the doolie at eight oclock yesterday evening, when the motion seemed to rouse him a little, and he just opened his eyes; and each time we changed bearers he has had a little ice between his lips, and a drink of lime juice and water with a dash of brandy in it. He has known me each time, and whispered a word or two, asking after the other. And how is he I have no doubt that he will do; that is, of course, if fever does not set in badly. His wounds are not so severe as the Generals, and he is a much younger man, and, as I should say, with a good constitution. If there is no complication he ought to be about again in a months time. He is perfectly sensible. Let him lie quiet for a day or two; after that it would be as well if some of you who have met him at the Generals would drop in occasionally for a short chat with him; but of course we must wait to see if there is going to be much fever. And did it happen as they say, doctor The dispatch told us very little beyond the fact that the General was...
