

Medieval and Modern Concepts of Creation in the Abrahamic Faiths

By Abdul B. Shaikh

LINCOM, 2011. Softcover. Book Condition: Neu. Dust Jacket Condition: Neu. 1. Auflage. Comparative religion to a large extent still remains an under developed field in Western academia even to this day. Medieval and Modern Concepts of Creation in the Abrahamic Faiths aims to provide a better understanding of the Abrahamic religions namely, Judaism, Christianity and Islam. It should be remembered that Abraham is widely revered and respected by the adherents of the faiths so much so that he has been bestowed the title Father of Monotheism. Studies in comparative religion have the ability to stimulate discussion and advance research with the main aim of fostering dialogue and mutual respect between the faiths. It is essential that the children of tomorrow see a bright future where mutual respect, tolerance and understanding is the order of the day rather than witnessing an environment dominated by suspicion, conflict and contempt based on misunderstandings. This book is unique in many ways more than one that will come apparent in due course. One might at this point be inclined to ask why conduct such a study involving medieval and modern concepts of creation. One is of the view that such a study was required for...
