By Hall Caine

Forgotten Books, 2018. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Eternal City HE was hardly fit to figure in the great review of life. A boy Of ten or twelve, in tattered clothes, with an accordion in a case swung over one shoulder like a sack, and under the other arm a wooden cage containing a grey squirrel. It was a December night in London, and the Southern lad had noth ing to shelter his little body from the Northern cold but his short velveteen jacket, red waistcoat, and knickerbockers. He was going home after a long day in Chelsea, and, conscious Of something fantastic in his appearance, and of doubtful legality in his calling, he was dipping into side streets in order to escape the laughter Of the London boys and the at tentions Of policemen. Coming to the Italian quarter in Soho, he stopped at the door Of a shop to see the time. It was eight o clock. There was an hour to wait before he would be allowed to go indoors. The shop was a baker s, and the window was full Of cakes and confectionery. From...
