Forgotten Books, 2017. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Measuring Fire Weather and Forest Inflammability In October or November of each year all meteorological equipment should be checked over, and before April 1 all damaged instruments should be repaired or replaced. At stations where measurements are discontinued at the close of each fire season all instruments should be carefully cleaned at that time and safely stored to prevent theft or damage during the winter. Unless this is done there may be un desirable delay in beginning measurements in the spring. Chart forms for all automatic recording instruments should always be clearly labelled to show station represented and dates included. It is best to write the date above the noon line for each day, and the station name in the blank space at one end of the chart. Proper designation of each chart record is highly important in order to prevent confusion and perhaps later loss of the data.
