Excerpt: . for amputation of the breast which is similar to that of the author as regards the essential point, the anaesthetizing of the brachial plexus. His method differs from that above described in that he does not induce conduction-anaesthesia of the intercostal nerves for anaesthetizing the tissues of the mamma and the muscles, but starting from three points below and two above the mammary gland infiltrates the field, that is to say, injects round and under the tumour. Finally he anaesthetizes the border of the latissimus dorsal muscle. Hohmeier uses 300 c.c. of o 5 per cent. novocain-suprarenin solution for the entire anaesthesia. Local Anaesthesia in Abdominal Operations. In this field of operative surgery the advances made by local anaesthesia have not kept pace with those made in other parts of the body. It is certainly true that it may be used satisfactorily in many abdominal operations, but in the case of extensive operations which have to be performed completely painlessly, it is at present not applicable. Isolated resections of the bowel and stomach were undertaken years ago by various surgeons under local anaesthesia. It is commonly employed for gastrostomies and colostomies, and in some cholecystostomies. The applicability of local anaesthesia in these cases always depends on the physical and psychical condition of the patients. To ensure better results, the usual practice is to administer morphia before the operation, as is the case, generally speaking, before all more extensive local anaesthesias. But in the..
