Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . The struggle in digesting truth is that most people don t want to come out of their man-made traditions and they don t want to be removed from their comfort zones. The majority of folks do not want to make anyone mad or offended because they re afraid of what will happen. The general population within and without the body of Christ definitely does not want to be hated by family, friends, peers, bosses, employees or pretty much anyone. Fear, pride and rebellion are leading those who refuse to consume, swallow, digest and properly apply truth. These same people don t want to have their lives altered in any way - they re happy the way they are. People who do choose to separate themselves from the norm or the majority, because they want to get out of whatever lie is being peddled in their environment, are deemed troublemakers and rebels. When lies are exposed, those doing the exposing are defined as pot-stirrers, meddlers, and other negatives. It can become cumbersome being the outcast, the one whom everyone despises even though that which should be despised is the lie they ve abided such a long time. No one wants Luke 6:22 to become their reality, plain and simple. Those who do want truth, most assuredly, do not want to be revised for it. Few care about their reward in Heaven because it s too far away; it s more of a myth than a reality. Most want the right-here-and-now acceptance of man. It s easier to be a Sunday Christian rather than a sold-out, utterly surrendered person of God because the former condition requires nothing of self other than church attendance,...
