Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Brown Alumni Monthly, Vol. 10: June, 1909, to May, 1910 In his discussion, President Lowell himself points out some Of the defects of the competitive impulse and method. It is evident that the introduction Of the elective system, by giving to each student a different group Of studies, has made im possible any even Or fair competition in the college as a whole. And again, it ap pears that such competitions, being based upon the workings of a routine marking system, have Often brought to the top the industrious rather than the able stu dents and have therefore made very lit tle appeal to genuine intellectual inter est ou the part of those who are most successful. To meet this difficulty, Pres ident Lowell suggests that in some way the tests of college work be made more vital, more significant Of genu ine achievement. A like suggestion has been made to our own faculty during the past year by Professor Upton. There is surely room for improvement at this point but no one has yet told us how the improvement is to be made.
